

Google supports DeepSec 2017

Posted on October 12,2017 by lynx

Image not found

Google Logo You have probably heard of Google. Well, you will be hearing more from them if you come to DeepSec 2017. They have agreed to support our conference. They will be on site, and you will be able to talk to them. Every year we aim to give you opportunities for a short-cut, for exchanging ideas, and for thinking of ways to improve information security. A big part of this process is fulfilled by vendors and companies offering service in the information security industry. This includes the many good people at CERTs and the countless brave individuals in the respective security team.

So we hope you take advantage of Google's presence at DeepSec. See you in Vienna!

Posted in:Conference,Internet | Tagged:Big Data,Cloud,DeepSec,Internet,Web | With 0 comments